

OCTOBER 2005 - NEW RELEASE

Dsico That No-Talent Hack "Fool": CD-EP w/ Bonus Remixes

After considerable acclaim, (The Brag, Exclaim magazine, Fbi Radio, JJJ, De:Bug magazine, Mark Moore) for his debut EP "You Fight Like A Girl", Dsico returns with a short teaser of 5 new tracks and as a bonus a diverse collection of 12 remixes by friends such as Ollo, Twitch (Optimo), Frenchbloke, Clone (Kate from girl group electro-pop stars B(if)tek), Superdfekt (MFOC Hamburg) and more.

The new material follows on in the vein of "You Fight Like A Girl" as Dsico contemplates distraction of modern life, in the disco and at home. Dsico solidifies his unique developing style of rough electro-rock and reputation for quality production from his recent work. The bonus remixes are of new tracks and tracks from "You Fight Like A Girl".

Bio:

Dsico is Luke Collison. He briefly dabbled in bastard-pop mash-ups, and self-aware absurdity over the last few years. Recently an old cover version of Nirvana Smells Like Teen Spirit was included on Tom Middletons' "Cosmosonica: Crazy Covers vol. 1" (Family / Universal). Luke is currently working on a full length album for release 2006 and performing live as a two piece rock / electro act.

Other recent releases have included

- Lord Lucan is Still Missing (12-Apostles 12") reworkings of the Dodgem's Lord Lucan
- Remix of The Emergency (Feralmedia) "We Got The Horror" single.
- I've Danced Enough 12" on Gang of Youth (Canada)
